You hunters, remember—no does, that goes!

The wild strawberry season in Vermont has been brought summarily to a close.

Any belated motor tourists in Vermont can go out on skids if they really must leave the state of snow.

The lone Socialist in Congress and the lone Socialist in the Vermont legislature can shake hands most exclusively.

One gathers from the conversation at Oyster Bay that Theodore Roosevelt is not entirely pleased with things in general.

Dr. Armgard Karl Graves of New York, Washington and the world at large filled in the after-election void with some very interesting "news" items, Count Von Bernstorff to the contrary notwithstanding.

In case the Republicans could satisfy themselves that they could marshal the complete Republican vote in the national House they would be sure of making things interesting for that Democratic plurality in the Senate.

The sudden arrival of real winter in mid-November must have caught some of the migratory birds still lingering in this northern clime, and if so they will suffer for want of food unless people supply the want by putting out food for as many of the birds as can be attracted.

If Quincy, Mass., should lose the Fore River shipbuilding concern, on the heels of the decline of its granite industry, it would be a serious blow to the little city. Quincy can afford to make some concessions to the shipbuilding company, in case there is real danger of losing the business.

Coincident with the holding of the New England fruit show in Vermont—at Montpelier—comes the announcement of the incorporation of a $50,000 company for the purpose of fruit culture in the town of Dorset. It begins to look as if Vermont were coming into her own as the home of the highest grade fruit, chiefly the apple.

If President Wilson should replace the heads of the war and navy departments with exceptionally able men he would win the support of a great many of his political opponents. The continued presence of Baker and Daniels in those two departments militated greatly against the president in the voting last Tuesday.

Burlington ought not to let that cavalry reserve camp slip through its fingers just as it allowed the soldier training camp to slip a few years ago. Inasmuch as the infantry camp is located across the lake at Plattsburg and inasmuch as there is a military post in the Burlington district it would be natural to place the cavalry training camp somewhere in the immediate vicinity.

Prof. Percival Lowell left us without conclusive proof that Mars is inhabited. Moreover, he did not leave many persons with as much faith in the theory as he himself possessed. Whether or not Mars is inhabited will, therefore, continue to be a subject for discussion wherever astronomers get together; but it must be admitted that Prof. Lowell left a very interesting theme for consideration.

With 300,000 plurality back of him Governor Hiram Johnson can take his place among the successes of the recent election, not to overlook also taking his seat in the Senate. In his own state of California Johnson is a very big man and to be reckoned with. When he comes to Washington, however, there will probably be a considerable shrinking of his influence in national affairs albeit he is to be considered as quite important when it comes to handling affairs in which California is directly concerned. Few men bulk quite so large in Washington as they do in their home states.

THE PLOTTERS SUBDUED.

Shortly after the outbreak of the war and when the belligerents began to demand munitions American business men grasped the opportunity thereby presented and began to manufacture various articles needed by those of the belligerents who could buy and carry away. As it happened, the entente allies were the only ones who bought because they were the only ones who could carry away the product. Almost immediately thereafter there came a series of disasters to the plants turning out the munitions and other articles needed by the entente allies. The plants were found to be on fire; the buildings were blown up; and lesser occurrences cropped up which had a tendency to cripple the manufacture. In almost every instance the report went forth that the occurrences, the fires, the explosions and the lesser disasters, were nothing but accidental and could not be ascribed to any overt act of men desirous of preventing the manufacture of articles for the entente allies. Nevertheless, the government agencies went to work to fer-

TALK OF THE TOWN

You will find tempting values in coats at Abbott's.

A son weighing 9 1/4 pounds was born Sunday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Olson of Garfield avenue.

Twenty per cent discount on all millinery this week at Mrs. H. S. Miles', 200 North Main street, over Dodge's Jewelry store.

Joseph Martin of 71 Boynton street, while looking over R. M. Harvey's farm in the edge of Chelsea, picked a dandelion blossom Nov. 12.

News is received here of the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Turner of Hartford, Conn. The child was born Nov. 4.

If you want to save money on your winter hat, call at Mrs. Birnie's, 3 Pleasant street, off Brook street. Best of quality at lowest possible prices.

Miss Gratia Reardon, who has been passing a few days at her home on Church street, returned last evening to Orange, where she is teaching school.

Howard T. Sands, general manager of the Tenney corporation, has returned to his home in Boston, after an inspection tour of the company's central Vermont holdings.

Stovepipe and elbows, coal sifters, coal hods, stoveboards, stove repairs of all kinds. Special sale on lanterns, oil heaters. E. A. Prindle, Depot square, 200 North Main street.

Reports from Mrs. E. L. Scott of Park street, who is ill at her former home in Randolph, indicate that her condition is slightly improved, although she still is confined to the house.

W. S. Teachout, an assistant in the office of the secretary of state, who has been investigating cases locally where violations of the automobile laws are alleged, has returned to his home in Essex Junction.

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist church, in St. Johnsbury last week, Miss Alice B. Farham of Camp street, retiring treasurer of the organization, was elected a vice-president.

Prayer services over the body of Mrs. Mary Philbrick, wife of the late Frank Philbrick, whose death occurred Sunday evening at the home of her son, O. E. Philbrick of 15 Orange street, were held at 8 o'clock this morning. Rev. J. B. Reardon, pastor of the Universalist church, officiating. Afterward the body was taken to Waits River, where funeral services in the Union church at 11 o'clock were in charge of Rev. Mr. Reardon. Interment was made in the Waits River cemetery beside the body of Mr. Philbrick, who died several years ago.

Retailers of bread in Barre are falling in line with retail dealers in other cities by raising the price of their output to 12 cents per loaf, although in one or two instances where bakers conduct their own retail stores, the 10-cent charge prevails. Those who are dependent upon bakers in other towns and cities to supply their retail trade are not sure that the jump in bread prices will stop at the 12-cent mark, and local bakers who are staying by the original price are understood to be agreed that the price cannot remain at 10 cents for long. One dealer who has been associated with the retail grocery trade for many years says he cannot remember when eggs sold for 48 and 50 cents per dozen at this season. In other quarters dealers go back to Civil war times before finding a parallel to the present situation.

Hunters answering the call of the open left the city in numbers this morning to be on the grounds when the curtain rises on the open season for shooting deer tomorrow morning. Unlettered by the heavy fall of snow, most of those who had planned advances on their favorite hunting camps left on early morning trains for the woods. Hunters agreed that a foot of snow on the ground would be quite enough and perhaps too much for hunting purposes, as the merest coverlet usually suffices for the wants of the big game chasers as well as those who hit the trail for the fox and rabbit.

Maidstone camp in northeastern Vermont will be opened for the season to-night when E. A. Drown, James Mackay, Fritz Jackson and George E. Bond arrive on the premises. The party left for Maidstone early this morning and will be joined to-morrow by other local hunters. The ridge of mountains to the west of Barre form a favorite stamping ground for Barre hunters and among those who left to-day for camps in Braintree, Pittsfield, Granville and Rochester were: H. J. Houghton, W. W. Parry, Larry Kendall, Armando Comolli and Reine Bernasconi.

YOU ARE INVITED

Demonstration Begins Wednesday

Please consider this a personal invitation to visit our store during this unusual demonstration. It will interest you to see this masterpiece of the stove-building art in actual operation—to learn what a very simple matter it is to transform a perfect coal range into a splendid full-sized gas range—or vice versa. It will interest you to know of the various ways in which gas may be used to advantage at the same time coal or wood fire is burning in the same range—how really simple and safe this all-in-one range is—and many other features of vital importance in the matter of preparing well-cooked food.

Lady from factory at Dowagiac, Michigan, invites the opportunity of showing

1. How the Round Oak 3-Fuel Combination Range may be successfully operated with coal, gas, or wood.
2. How it keeps the home warm and cozy in the bleak, cold winter.
3. How it assures a cool, comfortable kitchen in the stifling, hot summer.
4. How it saves room in the kitchen—and eliminates the messy job of blacking.
5. How its one large oven bakes perfectly with all fuels—now with coal—then with gas—or both together.
6. How a full-sized coal range and full-sized gas range are embodied—all-in-one.
7. How simple this combination really is—how quickly its operation is understood.
8. How the inventors have guarded against possible mistakes—how "fool-proof"—how safe it is in anyone's hands.
9. How the same firebox burns economically, both coal and wood without the usual change of fixtures.
10. How much less it costs than the two good and complete ranges it represents.

THE NEED OF THE HOUR

One Range for all Seasons

One Range for all Fuels!

Burns Coal or Wood in the bleak cold winter

Burns Gas in the stifling hot summer

Doubt if you like—but INVESTIGATE!

Special Inducements to those who decide during Demonstration for immediate or future installation of Round Oak 3-Fuel Combination Ranges

Realizing that no other article for the home is sold quite so much on the recommendation of satisfied users, arrangements have been made to sell a limited number, at prices considerably lower than those established as regular by the manufacturers. These inducements are offered for the sole purpose of getting a number of the ranges in use quickly—and apply only during the demonstration. Parties who decide on this range to be delivered later, will also be given every advantage of this special offer.

See the Lady Baking in Window

If you need a new coal or gas range "sometime," surely you need it now! Why not exercise your good judgment by learning all about this unique range—by taking full advantage of the attractive inducements now in effect?
